

Who wore it best this week?

By: Fallon Carrington March 30th, 2022

The theme was red at this year's Oscar awards, who hit and who missed?

Ariana DeBose stuns in a glorious red pant and flowing cape combo from Valentino.

Tracee Ellis Ross wears a Carolina Herrera gown at the Oscars on Sunday.

The Oscars on March 27th, 2022 were as star-studded as ever at the Dolby theater. But with a red carpet, comes fashion fails, and fashion wows. Ariana DeBose, star of the 2021 version of 'West Side Story' strutted across the carpet in a classy Valentino look that included flowy red pants, a cropped plunging red top, and a gorgeous matching red cape. The look covered a lot of her figure but was complemented by her diamond accessories and black nails. Tracee Ellis Ross also enjoyed the red theme; however, the actress's red Carolina Herrera dress was almost a major wardrobe malfunction! The gown's shape was not sturdy enough to flatter her beautiful features. The length was questionable for a red carpet, it appears to be hemmed a bit too short, stopping at her ankles. Both looks had promise, however, DeBose just wowed us, while Ellis's look needed some work.